ARMOR ACCEPTED.

Satisfactory Results of the Tests at Indian Head Yesterday.

The Navy Department accepted 315 tons of Harveyized nickel steel armor, nearly half of the side armor for the battleship Oregon, made by the Carnegie Company, as the result of a trial of an eighteen-inch plate at Indian Head yesterday. The plate received two shots from a twelve-inch gun. The first was fired at a velocity of 1,465 feet per second, and smashed to pieces on the face of the plate, which was scaled a little at the point of the impact, but was not cracked. The second shot had a velocity of 1,326 feet. This penetrated nincinches, and then broke up, but it cracked the plate from top to bottom. The plate, however, was pronounced to be of good quality.

Was also made of a small Chase-faced with high chrome steel, also cast. A six-inch shot was fired at the plate with a velocity of 2,100 feet. The shot was broken up, but the plate was badly cracked and a corner was broken off. The makers of the plate professed satisfaction with the result of the test, which was better than that attained at Sandy Hook last year, Further trial could not be had because of the smallness of the plate.
